

Gobius C and Gobius Pro, Codes

May 2026

Hi,

With this document we want to explain how you can use codes to share tank data.

New installation

The first time you do not need to enter a code, i.e. you answer No to the initial question when you start installing your sensor.

Share service details

There is always a need to make it easy, e.g. when you change your phone, sell your boat or when you hire a service company. In your app, you create a code that you email to the recipient. He only needs to install the app, and when he enters the code, all settings are transferred to his phone. The function saves time and prevents errors.

Share View only

View is a separate app, which the recipient needs to download to his phone. View is a good function when you only want your friends to be able to see tank data on their phones. You, the owner of the app, determine the code and distribute it to those who wish. It can be your family and crew. If you rent out your boat, this function is good to use.

I hope these lines help you understand these Share functions.

Fair winds,
